

Extroverts Vie For Attention As Lush Met Opera Opens

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—Except for the reported loss of a $22,000 diamond ring, the Metropolitan Opera Co. made a smooth debut—with less hauteur and hoopla than usual.

Folks watching the 64th annual opening last night in homes on a television broadcast probably thought this "opening night" stuff had been exaggerated.

Today they knew there had been excitement after all. There were lots of celebrities, but no action...until

Mrs. Harmon Spencer Auguste, a gray-haired socialite, disclosed she was missing a helmet-shaped platinum ring holding 100 diamonds.

She disturbed the already burbling opera house bar by announcing (during third act intermission) that she'd noticed its absence (during first act intermission) and was getting worried.

Mrs. Auguste said that while she was taking off her gloves she'd "had an empty feeling" —and she traced it to her ringless finger.

Eager photographers snapped Mrs. Auguste, since her announcement was the most melodramatic turn of the evening—except for the murder of Desdemona by Othello, which was onstage and therefore to be ignored.

They also vied for pictures of Mrs. Betty Henderson, the near-75-year-old matron who delighted reporters last year by propping her nyloned knees on a Metropolitan bar table.

But Mrs. Henderson acted prim, in keeping with her demure coiffure, a high pompadour that had been tricked up with three coiled curls which dangled from behind her right ear.

He spit curl banks were backed by sparkling strands of jewels looped around her head. Under the jeweled strands were tucked pieces of red velvet, cut in the shape of open, smiling lips.

Margaret Truman was given a big hand when she smiled and bowed her way into the opera house's "celebrity entrance." She wore a white gown with the off-shoulder neckline and topped it with a stole of white fur.

Miss Truman was one of a few in the swankiest of the Met's five tiers who did not appear at the exclusive all-tables-reserved bar.

It was in the bar where most of the action took place. Lily Pons and Andre Kos-telanetz smiled eagerly at photographers. Dorothy Kirsten attracted a large share of eyes by looking natural and girlish in a film of pink tulle and satin. Gloria Swanson remained for almost the entire performance—looking charming and young in one of the few black dresses seen at the opera.

Extroverts got what they wanted in the bar: Attention and appreciation.

In the muddled and red-and-gold canopied room across from the first circle of box seats, they showed off lavish wardrobes, smiled their warmest smiles, and discussed everything but Verdi's "Otello."

Most appreciative opera fans appeared to be the standees in the fifth balcony, who used field glasses to see the stage, dressed in gabardine suits and simulated pearls, and "sh-h-h-h-d" their fellow men when necessary during the performance.

In a darkened and quiet room on the street floor of the opera house, Edward Johnson—the Met's president—sat in an easy chair and watched the performance by television. His set, a small one, gave a rippling, wavering picture. But the music was good and Johnson enjoyed himself.

Meantime, Billy Rose, the man who offered to finance the opera season if he could modernize and reorganize the company, sat grinning in the bar with his cigar and wife.

Governor Calls Lame-Duck Assembly For 'Emergency' Parley Next Monday

COLUMBUS, Nov. 30—Gov. Thomas Herbert called back the "lame-duck" ninety-seventh Ohio general assembly last night in a special "emergency" session to meet next Monday at 1:30 p. m.

The governor limited the session to the two items he considers of the utmost importance. They were:

An additional $1 million appropriation for the tuberculosis hospital to be part of the Ohio State university medical center. Another $900,000 appropriation of the administration building at the Apple Creek state school now under construction near Wooster.

The extra appropriations would allow present bids on the projects to be accepted. The bids on the tuberculosis hospital expire Dec. 10 and the ones on the Apple Creek school about a week later.

Herbert talked to several legislative leaders last week and found them extremely cool toward another session. However, he said the Apple Creek matter had come up since then.

Herbert said last night he had talked with House Speaker C. William O'Neill, Senate Speaker Pro Tem Frank Whittemore, Senate Finance Committee Chairman Albert Daniels, Guy Hawli, who fills the same position in the house, and Sen. Roscoe Walcutt.

The governor said: "They all recognized the emergency of these two items and will support me."

It will be the third special session of the 97th assembly. The second was last July 21, when the solons repealed the sales tax on purchases of less than 41 cents.

By law a special session may consider only those matters which the governor puts before it. The senate has the additional task of confirming any appointments the governor has made since the last session which require confirmation.

Two such appointments remain to be made. They are trustee of Ohio State university and trustee of the college of industrial arts at Wilberforce.

Asked if he believed the measures could muster the required 93 votes in the house required for the two-thirds passage of an emergency measure, the governor replied:

"I don't look upon this as a partisan project. I look upon it as an emergency."

Science Finds A-Energy Fails To Help Crops

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—Government scientists told the farmer today that exhaustive tests "indicate strongly" that radioactive materials have no beneficial effect on crop yields.

This report dealt a stiff blow to the popular theory, developed soon after the first atomic bomb dropped on Japan, that atomic substances might stimulate plant growth.

The experimenters stressed, however, that radioactive by-products (isotopes) of the Atomic Energy Commission's plants are a valuable research tool when used as "tracers" in studying soils, fertilizers and plant nutrition.

Present plans call for another year of tests, but up to now direct use of radioactive substances has not affected either quantity or quality of production.

The materials have been tried out in 14 states on a variety of Georgia cotton to Washington sugar beets and Michigan spinach.

Experiments were requested and are financed by the Atomic Energy Commission. They are conducted by the Agriculture Department and agricultural experiment stations all across the country.

Both a commercial radioactive substance and radium have been tried out in ten repeat doses with no apparent effect.

Commie Bid Made After Big Rally

Fritz Ebert Gets Rump Parley Nod

BERLIN, Nov. 30 German Communists, backed by Russia, split Germany in half politically today, electing a rump parliament and mayor who was cheered by 300,000 Reds in the Berlin streets.

The Communists thus made an outright bid for full political control of Berlin. Fritz Ebert, son of the late President Friedrich Ebert, was chosen as mayor by the rump assembly.

He introduced himself to the huge crowd jamming Unter den Linden as "your new lord mayor" and was saluted by the throng which carried banners and placards attacking the Marshall Plan and the Western Powers.

Special buses and trains brought the thousands into Berlin from the Soviet-occupied eastern zone of Germany.

At conclusion of the street demonstration the crowd sang the Communist Internationale.

The Communists set up their own regime in the face of a warning by U. S. Commandant Col. Frank L. Howley only yesterday that any forceful attempt to seize the city will fail.

EBERT, whose father was president of the German republic established at Weimar after World War I, was picked as mayor in opposition to the Berlin regime recognized by the Western Powers at a meeting in the bomb-damaged Berlin Staats opera house.

British Modify Their Stand On Palestine Issue

PARIS, Nov. 30—Britain announced modification of her Palestine stand today, bringing it into virtual agreement with the U. S. position, which favors the original partition plan.

The new British attitude is expected to be introduced later today as a resolution. It eliminates a section of the earlier British plan, which relied mainly on the Bernadotte report.

The plan of the late UN mediator, Count Folke Bernadotte, has been opposed by the Jews because it awards the 3800-square mile Negev desert to the Arabs.

American and British delegations were reported discussing the possibility of joint sponsorship of the new proposal before the UN Political Committee.

However, some quarters expected the British to introduce it alone, incorporating the American viewpoint, and thus paving the way for an "Anglo-American front" on Palestine.

The U. S. delegation has favored a "dual" Palestine settlement, based on both partition and the Bernadotte plan, but with the emphasis on the former.

Tojo Death Is Delayed

Supreme Court To Ponder Case

TOKYO, Nov. 30—Gen. Douglas MacArthur granted a temporary reprieve today to all seven of Japan's doomed war criminals, pending action by the U. S. Supreme Court on appeals filed by two of them.

The Allied supreme commander replied "certainly not" when asked whether Ex-Premier Hideki Tojo and his six colleagues would be hanged before America's highest tribunal decides whether to intervene.

The condemned Japanese war-makers thus were given a reprieve expected to last for several days at least. The hangings in Tokyo's Sugamo prison were not expected to take place before next week.

A Supreme Court spokesman said in Washington that if the court follows its usual procedure, it will consider the appeals at a regular session Saturday and hand down a decision next Monday.

The high court is now in recess. However, Chief Justice Vinson could call a special conference for the justices to consider the petitions immediately.

THE SPOKESMAN explained that the court has refused to in- (Continued on Page Two)

China Bracing For Big Battle; Yanks Leaving

NANKING, Nov. 30—The bulk of Chinese Nationalist troops around embattled Suichow were reported marching south to Pengpu today to engage the Communists in a stand closer to Nanking.

Pengpu is about midway between the 200-mile stretch separating Suichow and the Nationalist capital of Nanking.

The new Communist threat to the capital prompted U. S. officials to order the mass aerial evacuation of American diplomatic personnel in China. Evacuation of U. S. citizens by boat already is underway in Shanghai.

Shanghai dispatches reported the U. S. Army Transport Republic sailed from that city today with 489 Americans on board.

Reports from Suichow said that only the government's 74th army (Continued on Page Two)

Dayton Tagged As Target For Army Bombers

DAYTON, Nov. 30—The U. S. Air Force will open its greatest peacetime bombing exercises in history this week, with this highly-strategic industrial city as its target.

Wright-Patterson air base officials said Strategic Air Command bombers from every part of the country will converge on Dayton within the next few days to carry out intensive simulated attacks against the heart of the city.

Air officers did not give the exact time this "Operation Obliteration" would start but said it would be carried out over a two-month period with at least part of the bombing runs to be made at night.

Spokesman would not reveal the number of bombers or men to take part, but said Dayton was selected as the first of a

BAYLORD, Mich., Nov. 30—The bewildered mother of a 12-year-old youngster involved in a murder charge sobbingly repeated one question today—"Where did I go wrong?"

The grayed, 40-year-old woman was Mrs. Roy Black, a former Sunday school teacher. She and her husband conferred last night with Probate Judge Frank Libcke on the fate of her boy, Lester.

Also present were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Damer, parents of 10-year-old Harry and 12-year-old Robert Damer.

The three boys were in official custody as "wayward minors" following their confession to a crime wave. Their acts ended in the slaying of an aged woodsman, Arthur King, because he

Woman 'Demoted' Waiting For Car

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—A disappointed woman told a congressional committee today that after waiting nearly 18 months for a new Chevrolet she found she had been "demoted" on the prospective buyers' list.

Mrs. Sarah M. Eigen gave the testimony before a House subcommittee on questionable trade practices.

The witness testified she gave the Kenyon-Peck Chevrolet Agency of Arlington, Va., $100 deposit on a new car on Nov. 8, 1946. She said that by April of 1946 she had progressed to 25th on the waiting list, but that in May she was told she had "gone down to 35th on the list."

Walter H. Garner, the agency's sales manager, admitted he had juggled the sales list on occasion but contended that Mrs. Eigen's case was a "result of natural error."

Laurence Kenyon, treasurer of the firm, admitted that only 50 percent of his new car allotment went to persons on the waiting list.

HE SAID the other half went to "regular customers," doctors and business firms.

Kenyon also acknowledged (Continued on Page Two)

Failure Ahead Of Mme. Chiang, Observers Say

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—Madame Chiang Kai-Shek of China flew to the U. S. today to face almost certain failure in a plea for immediate aid to save her husband's government from Communism.

Washington quarters believe there virtually is no chance of the First Lady of China winning a large scale commitment of military supplies or economic support.

Madame Chiang arrives in San Francisco today. She is due in the American capital at 10 a. m. (EST) tomorrow.

She will be shown official courtesies but the attitude in Washington appears to be one of letting China go as a bastion against Communism rather than extend the Truman Doctrine to that area.

Against this background Mme. Chiang's position will be much more uncomfortable than when she visited the country during the war to plead for aid to China.

In wartime she was a White House guest. She had the sounding board of Congress which she addressed to publicize her views.

Now the White House is closed for repairs. Congress is not in session. Officials are accepting her kindly but unenthusiastically.

$72,660 Doled Out Here In Yule Savings Funds

Circleville merchants Tuesday eagerly anticipated an increase in buying as three Circleville banks prepared to release approximately $72,660 to thoughtful Christmas Club savings subscribers.

According to the figures, this year's sales should top last year's total by some $20,016, since last year the banks sent out but $52,960 to savings clubbers.

But although this year's pay account from the banking houses exceeds last year's total, the banks report that only 1,140 persons subscribed to the plan, a decrease of 260 compared to the 1,400 accounts paid last year.

The difference is made up in the amount the average subscriber was paid, since last year each subscriber received but $36.40 while the average this year is $63.75.

THE BANKS reported Tuesday that most of the checks already (Continued on Page Two)

Pomeroy Hopes The Kid's Resignation Sticks This Time

POMEROY, Nov. 30—The Pomeroy Sentinel carried a one-line editorial today:

"It is hoped Canada's fourth resignation is legal and sticks."

The newspaper referred to balding, ex-prizefighter Delmar "Kid" Canada, who submitted his resignation as mayor—for the fourth time—following his latest feud with other officials.

Said Councilman E. H. Joney, who led the fight against him:

"I hope it's official. Remember, he resigned three other times."

Boney said council would take up the matter of Canada's resignation at a special meeting tonight if it could be considered legally. Meanwhile, Acting Mayor Sidney Spencer, 36, said he would be willing to continue as long as council worked with him. Said Spencer:

"The foolishness is over. From now on we are going to work for the betterment of Pomeroy."

The broken-nosed Canada, under a 30-day suspension by Gov. Thomas Herbert and due for a removal hearing Dec. 4 had he not resigned, mailed his resignation to Spencer late yesterday. It was postmarked at 3 p. m.

Canada sent a copy of his resignation to Herbert, adding a note which said:

"I am glad that my action thereby relieves you of one of the burdens of your office, to wit: The duty of conducting a hearing on the ridiculous charges of misconduct brought by certain ill-advised members of my council."

The charges were brought by four council members. Canada says one has since resigned and another withdrawn the charges.

He blamed his resignation on "the increased demands of my private business," and said, "my action is no submission to the ridiculous charges."

Earlier, Canada had said he expected to "serve a couple of terms in Congress," then try for the governorship.

In his note to the governor, Canada said:

"My hat is off to you and every other elective official who has had the intestinal fortitude to seek and hold public office."

He said he would enjoy the political battle that would come from a public hearing.

session, Ebert said: "I am taking over as lord mayor. The new magistrat represents the true will of the entire Berlin population."

The action took place prior to a monster outdoor rally before the Berlin university on Unter Den Linden designed as a show of Communist strength to discourage Democratic elements in the Western sector elections scheduled for Sunday.

Ottomar Genschke, deputy speaker of the old assembly which combined both East and West Berlin, administered the oath of office. He said:

"Since the elections of 1946, the magistrat has attempted to thwart the will of the people."

"That magistrat has now been ousted."

Fritz Ebert's father, a stormy political figure in an earlier day of German political crisis, died in 1925.

The election of Ebert means that the Communists finally have reached the showdown stage in their attempts to discredit the Western Berlin municipal regime that is backed by the U. S., Great Britain and France.

The rump assembly voted unanimously for the immediate resignation of Ferdinand Fridenburg, who has been acting mayor during the illness of Frau Louise Schroeder, the lady mayor of Berlin.

FRAU SCHROEDER, in turn, had served because the Soviets refused to recognize Dr. Ernst Reuter, the duly-elected mayor of Berlin whose Social Democratic policies were opposed by the Russians.

As crowds gathered for the demonstration, German police in the adjacent western sector were alerted. Emergency patrols cruised near the boundary line to thwart any possible Communist "invasion."

The Soviet-sponsored regime is the Russian answer to the municipal elections which will be held in the western sector on Sunday. The Soviets are boycotting the balloting and have forbidden East Berliners to vote.

Marshal Vassily Sokolovsky, Soviet military governor yesterday bluntly informed the Western powers that the Russians will not recognize officials elected on Sunday. He implied that the Kremlin thus will regard its own administration as qualified to rule all Berlin.

The Moose Lodge will sponsor a games party every Wednesday starting at 8 p. m. The public is invited.

Commissioners Amend Resolution On Aide's Pay

Pickaway County commissioners Monday amended a resolution passed last week naming Hazel Yeatts, office deputy sheriff, to the second county position of temporary assistant in the relief office.

The resolution now reads that Mrs. Yeatts is to be paid for relief office work "on the basis of" $110 a month.

Mrs. Dorothy Gerhardt, temporary county relief director thus will determine the amount of time that is required. She said Tuesday Mrs. Yeatts would be paid $55 a month for this work. The office deputy sheriff position pays $140 a month.

The commissioners also approved the sale of 20 bonds to the county sinking fund trustees to cover expenses for repair of the Hughes ditch in Harrison Township.

Bonds were delivered to Treasurer Robert Colville, who reported their value at $6,296.20, the amount needed to cover the ditch repair.

He said the $6,296.20 would be paid back to the county by the petitioning land owners on the basis of a 20-year tax assessment levied against the property affected.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—President Truman declared today he would be glad to see the new Democratic Congress institute a thorough investigation of lobbying activities in the 80th Congress.

The President made repeated and emphatic charges during his campaign that the "do nothing 80th Congress" was largely swayed by lobbyists for "special interests" including the real estate, power and railroad lobbies.

In handing down the Corder will refusal, Judge Lamb disallowed the paper as not being "a last will and testament." It is a state law that a will must be signed and contain the signatures of two witnesses, Judge Lamb explained.

The alleged will was written March 27, 1948, on two sheets of ruled tablet paper. Provisions were made for funeral arrangements and a sister.

In the Creed will, $3,000 was bequeathed to four beneficiaries; a number of books were left to Circleville public library and all real and personal property handed a Columbus man and a Lakewood woman.

THE SUM OF $1,000 was left to Grace Renick of Circleville; $1,000 to the "First Methodist Episcopal church of Circleville" and $500 each to Albert Waite of Circleville and Forest cemetery.

Residue of the estate, including all real and personal property was bequeathed to William H. Myer of Columbus and Agnes S. Kessler of Lakewood.

The Meda A. Hay will which was admitted to probate left all property, both real and personal to her daughter, Elida L. Hines.

The Mary F. Dowden estate is to be administered by Edward B. Dowden and John T. Dick was approved as administrator of the Charles Davis estate.

would not help cover up their absence from school.

Before white-haired Judge Libcke lay the problem of providing punishment for the young trio. Under Michigan law they cannot be classified as criminals and the murder is a "delinquency."

THE JUDGE, who has five boys of his own, told the grieving parents they would have "to punish the boys." But he added: "A way must be found to rehabilitate these boys so they can take their proper place in society despite their mistake."

The parents agreed to forego the right of legal counsel and leave the youngsters' fate in the hands of the kindly judge.

Pending final disposition, Judge Libcke scheduled psychiatric examinations for the three tomorrow at the state hospital in Traverse City.

The embassy's announcement reflected the swiftly mounting Communist danger to the Nanking-Shanghai area in the heart of China.

intervene in the past in all cases appealed from the decisions of international tribunals.

Postponement of the scheduled secret executions was announced shortly after word reached Tokyo that petitions challenging two of the death sentences had been filed with the Supreme Court in Washington yesterday.

The pleas, disputing Gen. MacArthur's right to set up the international tribunal that condemned the Tojo group, were entered in the names of Gen. Kenji Doihara and Koki Hirota.

Doihara is the "Lawrence of Manchuria" whose Trojan horse exploits in China's northern provinces paved the way for Japan's 1931 Manchurian conquest.

Hirota, a former premier convicted of having master-minded Japan's invasion of China proper, is the only civilian among the seven doomed aggressors.

Tojo's American lawyer, George F. Blewett of Philadelphia, reiterated that he does not plan to file any appeal with the Supreme Court in behalf of the Pearl Harbor premier.

He said Japan's No. 1 war criminal "does not want further action taken."

Prosperity Certain To Hold In '49

Foreign Aid Seen Holding Employment

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—Key federal experts predicted today that "defense activities and foreign aid commitments" assure continued prosperity and employment in the United States in 1949.

The favorable outlook came from a combination of reports from the Federal Security Agency, the Commerce Department and the Labor Department.

Private industry also added its voice to the prosperity picture.

Robert C. Goodwin, director of FSA's bureau of employment security told Administrator Ewing that the increase in employment which got underway in October would continue through Christmas and into 1949. He said:

"Future manpower needs of our expanding defense activities and foreign aid commitments should more than take up any slack in employment which have caught up or will catch up with demand in coming months."

"The outlook is for a continuation of the low unemployment conditions."

GOODWIN declared that "notwithstanding some soft spots which have appeared in such fields as textiles, furniture and shoe manufacture and normal seasonal declines in construction and food processing, the overall employment picture looks good with labor demand strong."

The Commerce Department said new construction for 1949 probably will set a dollar volume record for building activity, a view which is shared by the Labor Department.

The two agencies predicted the mark will reach $18.75 billion, but added:

"Physical volume of construction in 1949 apparently will be about the same as 1948, and thus remain appreciably below previous physical volume records set in the 1920s and in 1942."

At the same time, the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. reported that telephones in the United States now total about 38 million, or about one for every four persons in the country. This is an all-time high.

FSA said a survey of the aircraft industry shows that employment there "has turned the corner from postwar reductions and now is moving gradually upward." Goodwin reported:

"Overall expansion in the aircraft production industry will continue throughout the next six months but will be gradual. Large volume gains probably will not begin until well into 1949."

FOR GERMAN CHILDREN

THE United Nations is able to ignore political differences and act with promptness and efficiency to help the children in all four zones in Germany.

This heartening fact is brought out by the recently implemented program of the United Nations Children's Fund. This fund is supported by contributions from the governments included in the United Nations, some of which are in money and others in the form of food. Streptomycin for tuberculosis sufferers is to be furnished, as well as leather for clothing and cod-liver oil to supply needed vitamins. Such is the wide range of help to be given.

Russia has applied for this aid for the children in her zone, and the question arises whether the relief materials will be allowed shipment through ordinary channels by rail and truck, or whether the airlift must take care of them. The supplies would come from the West.

It would be a hopeful sign if the blockade of Berlin could be opened for such a project as this. One would not need to be a sentimentalist in order to rejoice that the needs of children had been effective when other protests of suffering under the blockade had served only to tighten it.

BLACK MARKET

IS THE black market back? Scarcity of goods usually breeds irregularities of all sorts in buying them, from plain favoritism to bribery. These conditions, we were sometimes told, were caused by OPA and price control, and would disappear as soon as business ceased to be hampered.

No one, so far as known, is hampering the automobile industry with government controls, yet the familiar evils appear on all sides. Every one who has tried to buy a car has heard plenty of stories about the pull required and the tips involved. A Washington, D. C., salesman told Representative W. Kingsland Macy's investigating committee that he got $500 on the side from a customer with every sale. This committee has revealed that in Washington, at least, black market conditions are still common.

The presence or absence of price control is not likely to be the cause of black markets, or of the absence of them.

COMMITTEE PORTRAIT

THE Chamber of Commerce of the United States bestows praise on the House Committee on Un-American Activities. It thinks that this committee has been useful in exposing Communists, and should have more funds. The Chamber makes no comment on the committee's practice of slandering citizens and giving them no chance to defend themselves.

The Committee should be painted as Oliver Cromwell desired his Portrait to be done. "Paint me as I am," he said, "warts and all."

These Days

Madame Chiang Kai-Shek is due in Washington Wednesday to plead personally her country's cause.

Madame Chiang is a product of American education and in that sense is as American as any girl who, after school, buys a Coke at a corner drugstore. I first met her after she returned to China from Wellesley where she studied. But it was not at Wellesley that she captured the nature of America. As a young girl, she was sent by her parents to Macon, Ga., to stay with Bishop Ainsworth of the Southern Methodist church and to receive her pre-college work in our schools.

Her father had spent a good part of his life in this country, particularly in the South. An extraordinary man, Charles Jones Soong had started his career on the United States revenue cutter, Colfax. He was baptized in Fifth Street Methodist Episcopal church, Wilmington, N. C., and had studied at Trinity college, which is now Duke university.

He returned to China, with a theological degree from Vanderbilt university in 1885, as an English teacher. A man of action, he established a printing house in Shanghai to publish Bibles; he was on the organization committee of the first YMCA in China; he eventually became secretary and treasurer of the revolutionary movement, to liberate China from the Manchus, headed by Sun Yat-Sen.

Mei-Ling Soong, now the wife of President Chiang Kai-shek, possesses many of her father's qualities. She is a woman of strong convictions with a great capacity for decisive action; she is a brilliant English scholar, using the language with color and precision; she is deeply, sincerely and movingly religious. And she has always been loyal to her second home, the United States.

The lady is witty and her sharp response to a phrase often surprises because it is unexpected. She and Harry Truman should get on well together, particularly if they are ever able to talk outside of protocol.

This is something that ought to be known: When Chiang was a young man, he studied military science in Japan, and later, for a short time, in the Red army schools in Russia. The strongest influences upon him, particularly during the revolutionary days from 1924 to 1927, were Russian and Communist. In fact, when he started his career, it was at the head of the Wampoa Military Academy, a Red army school near Canton, and he became the head of the revolutionary army through the support of the Russians who were then seeking to conquer China.

Chiang's renunciation of the Russians and the Communists was his own. It came out of his realization that a foreign country was seeking to seize his country by what was then a novel device but has now become standard throughout the world. It was, however, after his marriage to Mei-Ling that he came to know of the Western world, of America, of Christianity. She brought into his life an intimate and close appreciation of our ways.

Perhaps some were surprised that the lady does speak up, disappointing those who expect the shy, frightened stereotype of the silent Oriental spouse. In the first place, the stereotype is false, because Chinese women are not very different from our own; and in the second place, Mei-Ling Soong was reared in this country. Americans can readily take her for a fellow-countrywoman.

All About Marriage

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

AS THEIR enthusiasm waxed over the idea, the girls decided to make it an after-Christmas party, along in January, when they could borrow leftover Christmas decorations and favors from their families and friends, as well as conserving their own, thus washing out a very considerable item of party-giving expenditure.

Their acquisitive natures stirred by the possibilities of the project, they had gone farther. Each had agreed to save at least half of all edible gifts received, candies, nuts, preserves, fruit cakes and jellies and contribute them to the after-Christmas party refreshments, again cutting down delightfully on the general overhead. Her parents enthusiastically agreed that it was a thoroughly sound economic as well as social project.

"Are any of the girls going to be alone over Christmas, Donna?" her mother asked. "There aren't going to be many of us here and we have plenty of room. I shouldn't like any of them being stuck alone in New York over Christmas. You can have as many of them up as you like. Dad's a good carver; he knows how to stretch a turkey."

"They are all going places, to relatives or friends. Except Sammy Ingram. She is going to have her Christmas with her red-headed boy friend, and she says, though I am not sure I believe her, that he is going to chef it himself. That I would like to see! From all I've seen of him, which isn't much, those hands of his are better adapted to the many pastimes of lefts and rights to the jaw and socks in the kisser than the fine art of basting a turkey or setting fire to a plum pudding."

Regardless of personal disquisitions, Christmas came for the Collwells as inevitably as for the world at large and among them were no signs, visible or audible, of inner unease. To all appearances, it was another Christmas, like all Christmas past and all to come. Both Donna and her father waived their respective office parties to insure early departure from the city, early arrival at home. He picked her up in the car, both arms bulging with final packages, and the swift drive to New Jersey was enlivened with much cheerful chatter, much gay laughter.

There was the usual exclamatory arrival followed by hectic last-minute rushes, frenzied checking of lists for possible horrifying failures to remember someone, excited telephone calls, reminders, invitations. Mr. Collwell, not without pride, brought in the tree of his selection and solemnly turned it about for their praiseful inspection. A beautiful tree! Perfectly shaped! Just the right size.

No one said anything about it, but they were remembering other trees. Especially they remembered the year when David and Mark went to the tree, feeling that they were thoroughly wet every day.

Copyright, 1948, by Ethel Hueston.

the pressure of personal limited finances and deploring the high prices, argued effectively that paying for a tree was a sheer waste of money when the hills of New Jersey were chockablock with as good trees as God ever grew. Burning with economic zeal they had sallied forth and returned hours later, torn clothes wet through, chilled to the bone, exhausted and ravenous, triumphant bearers of an exquisite spruce. Mrs. Collwell complained only mildly that the damage to their clothing, to say nothing of the quantities of food required to restore them to normal well-being, would have sufficed for the purchase of half a dozen trees. But she agreed, with loyal Christmas spirit, that no bought tree would have been so beautiful.

True, the boys had erred, as came to light a few days later. They had crossed the forest line onto a private estate and had painstakingly selected a perfect specimen of imported Norway spruce. By sad mischance a wandering caretaker, or low-lived poacher as the boys indignantly claimed, had seen and recognized them and shortly after Christmas Mr. Collwell received a formal statement of account from the owner of the estate, fifteen dollars due account one Norway spruce. Fifteen dollars for a Christmas tree.

There were no hard feelings about it. Mr. Collwell and his creditor agreed that Christmas spirit could quite easily dull young lads' perception of legal boundaries and settled amicably enough for ten dollars. Mr. Collwell shared the bill with the boys, two dollars apiece for them, six for him.

Ten Christmas ago that had been when Mark, to the Collwells, was still rated as David's pal, before a subtle almost imperceptible change in his status reclassified him as Donna's boy friend.

While Mr. Collwell tested out the electric wiring and bulbs Donna went to the basement for the bucket of earth, carefully treasured from year to year for just this purpose. She put the bucket in the sink and allowed water to seep into it gently until the dry soil was reduced to the proper state of mud and carefully cleaned the outside of the pail.

"Here's your mud!" she proclaimed triumphantly. Mrs. Collwell placed a stack of newspapers in the Christmas tree corner of the room and covered them with an old white sheet, mindful of possible spills and drippings during future waterings. Mr. Collwell inserted the tree firmly in the center of the soggy mass and Donna and her mother steadied it while he wired it securely to the window jambs.

The bucket of mud reminded them of another Christmas, nine Christmas ago. Someone had told Mark, who passed the scientific tidbit along to the Collwells, that if a Christmas tree were set in a bucket of mud, and the mud kept thoroughly wet every day,

The next Congress hopes to insure American business an income such as it never dreamed of and a tax bite it never dreamed of either.

Still none of us should give up hope. If we work at this thing would them angels say if your dress ain't got a back in it?" "They won't be lookin' at me, said Mrs. Poppin tartly. "I buried Zeke without his pants."

YOUR FUTURE

The new moon accents your most deeply-held aims, ambitions and loves. Safeguard your health and exercise caution in business and be tactful with elders. Today's child may be somewhat delicate, and need extra care, but outstanding talent is indicated and much personal charm.

MODERN MANNERS

Don't be sharp and disagreeable when your phone rings while you are very busy. The person calling cannot know of your activities. Suspend your annoyance and answer with a pleasant "Hello!"

We may be able to get back to the good old times when there was no profit. Say 1932-1941.

But it's good to know that the farmers' income remains steady although some of the consumers are getting a little shakey.

No Decision Yet Reached On Any Cabinet Changes Snyder, Donaldson, Brannon, Tobin Remain in Cabinet?

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—President Truman is devoting much time these post-election days to consideration of the cabinet which will serve him in his second administration.

Top Washington observers, with access to White House sources, believe the president has as yet made no definite decisions about replacements—which loom eventually in the spots now occupied by Secretary of State George C. Marshall, Defense Secretary James

President Truman

Forrestal and Interior Secretary Julius A. Krug. The other cabinet posts are more likely to remain as they are—with Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder, Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson, Agriculture Secretary Charles Brannon and Labor Secretary Maurice Tobin more or less certain to stay.

Marshall wishes to retire after formation of the North Atlantic Alliance. The president may ask Supreme Court Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson to step down from the bench and take the job, draft Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, or, perhaps, even turn to a Republican, such as Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan.

There has been no decision on who will succeed Forrestal. When Forrestal goes, Army Secretary Kenneth Royall and Navy Secretary John Sullivan probably will go with him. Missouri-born Air Secretary Stuart Symington is likely to remain. Mentioned as a possible Forrestal successor is Senator Chan Gurney (R), South Dakota, Senate defense committee chairman.

Krug may be succeeded by defeated Gov. Mon C. Wallgren of Washington—or the president may reappoint former Interior Secretary Harold Ickes, who did yeoman service for the Truman campaign in its closing days.

● CHINESE PUZZLE—Certain Washington strategists are far less upset than might be expected concerning the Chinese government's military reverses.

They do not like to see the Communists making such headway against Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist troops in northeast China, but they think it may all turn out for the best.

Withdrawal of Chiang's forces from Mukden, capital of Manchuria, was long urged by these strategists before the capital's fall. They contend that Chiang should consolidate his forces, knock the Communists out of central China, and then move northward and finally take over Manchuria.

In fact, these strategists are firmly convinced that the weakness of the Nationalist armies to date is simply that they are spread too thinly over a large area. This is one of the reasons for opposition in Washington to larger aid grants to China.

Now, however, it is anticipated that China's Nationalist forces will consolidate—of necessity. If the generalissimo decides to make a fight along the lines of American strategy, there may be a sharp change in the administration outlook on aid.

● TAFT SWITCH—Don't be surprised if Senator Robert A. Taft (R), Ohio, takes the Senate minority floor leadership—despite predictions of the experts that he would not be interested.

It is true that if the Republicans had won the Senate, Taft would have refused the majority floor leadership. Under those circumstances, he could have exerted more influence as GOP policy committee chairman.

His situation shapes up differently, however, in a Democrat-controlled Senate. A minority policy chairmanship is not a strong position in relation to party affairs.

On the other hand, Vice President-Elect Alben Barkley, as minority leader in the last Congress, was by all odds the strong man on the Democratic side of the aisle.

So it seems highly likely that Taft will take the Republican floor, rather than policy leadership. This will be a jolt to some of his colleagues, particularly Acting Floor Leader Kenneth Wherry (R), Nebraska.

Initial Steps Are Taken To Form Parent-Teacher Group For Circleville

Fischer Believes 'Plan Has Merit'

Initial steps toward the formation of a parent-teacher organization for Circleville were taken Monday evening when representatives of various civic groups held a roundtable conference.

The meeting, called by Child Conservation League, proposed a business and study group to air mutual problems of both parents and teachers.

Frank Fischer, superintendent of Circleville city schools, told the Circleville Herald Tuesday morning he believed "the proposal appears to have merit and we will be happy to discuss the problem with the committee."

Principal discussion Monday evening dealt with apparent failures of a similar group which has been abandoned. It was reported the old parent-teacher group eventually evolved into a social organization in which the teachers did all the work and parents sat back and enjoyed the entertainment.

The new group proposed to be primarily a business and study group with social functions at a minimum.

Monday night's meeting was attended by 20 persons in the Business and Professional Women's clubroom in Masonic Temple.

Among the possible needs discussed by the group were:

More personal contact between teachers and parents;

Expansion of the "class mother" plan;

More parent education with regard to child health and diet;

Study of present curriculum;

More personal work when school bond issues are up for vote;

Better public information outlets on school activities;

Possible short-comings of the local over-all school system.

Named on a committee to meet with school officials were Mrs. Lincoln S. Mader, Mrs. John Heiskell, Dr. David Goldschmidt, Dr. Richard Samuel and Norbert Cochran.

AN EXQUISITE pattern in Sterling Silver tableware in the lovely Queen Anne style of decoration which prevailed in the early American period has been created by Lunt Silvermiths who have fittingly named it "Colonial." Its delicate, delicate shell, line, and beaded edge and unusual charm of contour definitely express the spirit of the period. A four piece place setting, knife, fork, teaspoon and salad fork, of this lovely pattern would cost just $17.75 and no other gift would be more appreciated.

ROSE BOWL DEAL TO DIE Big 9 Peeved; Oregon Gets Big Game Bid, Too

CHICAGO, Nov. 30—It was considered almost a foregone conclusion today that the Pacific Coast-Big Nine Rose Bowl agreement will not be renewed when the present five-year pact expires.

This became apparent as members of the Big Nine pondered the latest development in the situation—the spectacle of two Pacific coast eleven playing in rival bowls on New Year's Day.

One prominent Big Nine official declared:

"Permitting Oregon to accept a Cotton Bowl bid breaks all precedent. We don't permit Big Nine teams to play elsewhere, and most of us felt the Pacific Coast Conference would go along on the same basis.

"Certainly it shatters all precedent for that organization and opens the way for a flock of post-season games if they want to go into it on a wholesale basis. From now on, any time they have a couple of good teams they can point to the Oregon case."

BIGGEST objection from the Big Nine standpoint is that the Rose Bowl has overshadowed the conference championship.

As one critic put it: "They didn't dance in the streets and call off classes at Michigan, yet that school won the championship. In other years, the championship was the big deal, and we'd like to return it to that basis."

The present agreement has two more years to run after the Northwestern-California game on the coming New Year's Day. Under the terms of the Big Nine pact, no team can represent the Western Conference more than once in any three-year period, which means that both Michigan and Northwestern will be ineligible next year.

One athletic director pointed out that from a financial standpoint, the deal is hardly worth while. The Big Nine's share is divided into 11 parts, of which two go to the competing school, one to the commissioner's office, and the others to the other eight conference institutions.

Each Big Nine treasury received $9,200 last year. Michigan's two shares amount to $18,400, but the Wolverines spent more than $11,000 above their expense allotment, leaving them with only about $7,000 net.

The Pacific Coast Conference schools also split the proceeds. So Oregon, not being bound by any agreement in its special dispensation will be able to keep its entire share of the Cotton Bowl game, approximately $100,000—and also, apparently, will get the normal Rose Bowl share given to each coast conference school.

Circleville Grads Face Tough Game

Unblemished Record Eyed By Walnut

Circleville high school alumni basketball team Thursday will defend its unblemished title to Alumni League leadership when it tangles with Walnut Township grads in Pickaway Fairgrounds Coliseum.

To date the CHS grads sport a record of four wins in as many starts, the only team in the league to post a 1,000 percent record.

Its Thursday opponent, Walnut, is tied for fourth place in league standings, having split its starters with two wins and as many losses.

Another title will be at stake also in the Thursday league, that of high scoring honors.

The high scoring title has been claimed for the first four weeks of league play by Jack Hix of Monroe. Hix failed to play last Thursday, but still leads league competition with 51 points.

Closest contender for the honors is Bill Ankrum, also of the Monroe aggregation, who has posted 48 tallies in four tilts. Next high man is Bob Young of Pickaway and fourth place player is Jim Weaver of Walnut.

TIGHTEST BATTLE Thursday should be seen in the Williamsport-New Holland fracas, in which both teams will be battling to break a tie between them for seventh place in the eight-team league.

Jackson, which holds an undisputed claim on the cellar of the league with four losses in as many attempts, will be struggling Thursday with Monroe, which is tied for second place.

Pickaway, tied for second place in the league with three wins in four starts, will try for its fourth win Thursday against Scioto grads, who have won two and lost two so far.

Pickaway and Scioto are to begin the evening's play Thursday, followed by tilts between Monroe and Jackson, and Circleville and Walnut.

Following are the league standings and the league honor roll in scoring as compiled by Bob Tootle, league statistician:

Dope Sheet Shows Graham, Browns Turn On Heat Only When Needed

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—All-America Football Conference statistics disclosed today that Otto Graham of the Cleveland Browns is the direct antithesis of the Confederate leader whose winning policy was to "get there fustest with the mostest."

The motto of Otto this season has been to "get there lastest with the mostest."

After lagging behind new leaders all season, he exploded against San Francisco last Sunday at a time when it would do him and the Browns the most good.

Automatic Otto pitched for four touchdowns against the 49ers, thus winning the Browns their third consecutive western title and lifting himself into first place in the league's list of individual passing and total offensive leaders. He had been trailing in third place in both departments.

However, Graham is not yet out of the woods. A Baltimore gentleman bearing the somewhat fictional cognomen of Yelberton Abraham Tittle is pressing him closely in both specialties.

IN THE RUSHING department, Cleveland's Marion Motley, the leader was held to a total of 36 yards in his last two games and is a mere four yards ahead of John Strzykalski of the 49ers.

Glenn Dobbs of the Los Angeles Dons has averaged 49.1 yards per punt and seems certain to break his major league mark of 47.8.

Team statistics show that defense ability, rather than offense

Legion Opens Cage Card With Kingston Victim

Circleville American Legion basketball team opened its season Monday in Pickaway Fairgrounds Coliseum by defeating Kingston American Legion 31-18.

The Circleville aggregation led by one tally at the end of the first canto, extended the lead by two more markers at halftime.

The locals shot ahead at the three-quarter mark with a margin of nine points and clinched the encounter in the final frame with a 13-point lead.

Junior Anderson of the Circleville quintet was high scorer in the fracas, racking up 16 tallies from his forward post. John Maxwell of the visiting Kingston club ranked second by tallying 10.

Following is the box score of the Legion ice-breaker:

Miami Gridders Ponder Basin Bowl Offer

OXFORD, Nov. 30—The Miami Redskins were to hold their second pow-wow late today to decide whether to accept an invitation and invade Hostile Texas territory to play in the Basin Bowl in Odessa.

The squad first met yesterday afternoon but postponed a decision in the absence of Coach George Blackburn, called away to a speaking engagement in Galion.

Meanwhile, Line Coach Joe Madro announced Miami had been squeezed out of a bid to the Cigar Bowl in Tampa, Fla., only because there was no one to play against.

Madro said the Indians had received a wire from Tampa team selection chairman saying: "Our desire to have Miami play in Cigar Bowl abandoned for lack of suitable opponent."

Miami won seven games, tied one and lost one (to Dayton) last season.

Lambert Trophy To Army Again

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—The Lambert Memorial Trophy, symbolizing the football championship of the East, went to Army today for the fourth time in five years.

The award, made by sports writers throughout the East, went to the Cadets by an overwhelming margin. The ballot gave Army 112 votes, Penn State six, and Cornell one.

Army, generally ranked third in the nation, was unbeaten and untied this season until held to an amazing 21-21 deadlock last Saturday by Navy in the final game of the season.

Yale Crew Grabs Trophy

CHICAGO, Nov. 30—A Yale university dinghy crew, skippered by Bob Monetti, went home today for the second annual Northwestern University Invitational Regatta with the Mark Timme Angsten Memorial Trophy.

The Eli sailors chalked up 336 points in the Thanksgiving weekend and met off Chicago's Belmont Harbor to lead Michigan's crew by eight points.

Northwestern finished third with 279 points and was followed by crews from Notre Dame, Cornell, Ohio Wesleyan, Ohio State, Purdue, Chicago and Minnesota.

Willis-Taseff Duel Is Cited

CLEVELAND, Nov. 30—The Canisius-John Carroll battle Sunday in the Great Lakes Bowl game might well be billed as a Willis-Taseff duel.

Taseff needs little introduction to Ohio college football followers. The stocky Carroll fullback has racked up 78 points this season while leading the Streaks to six victories in nine games.

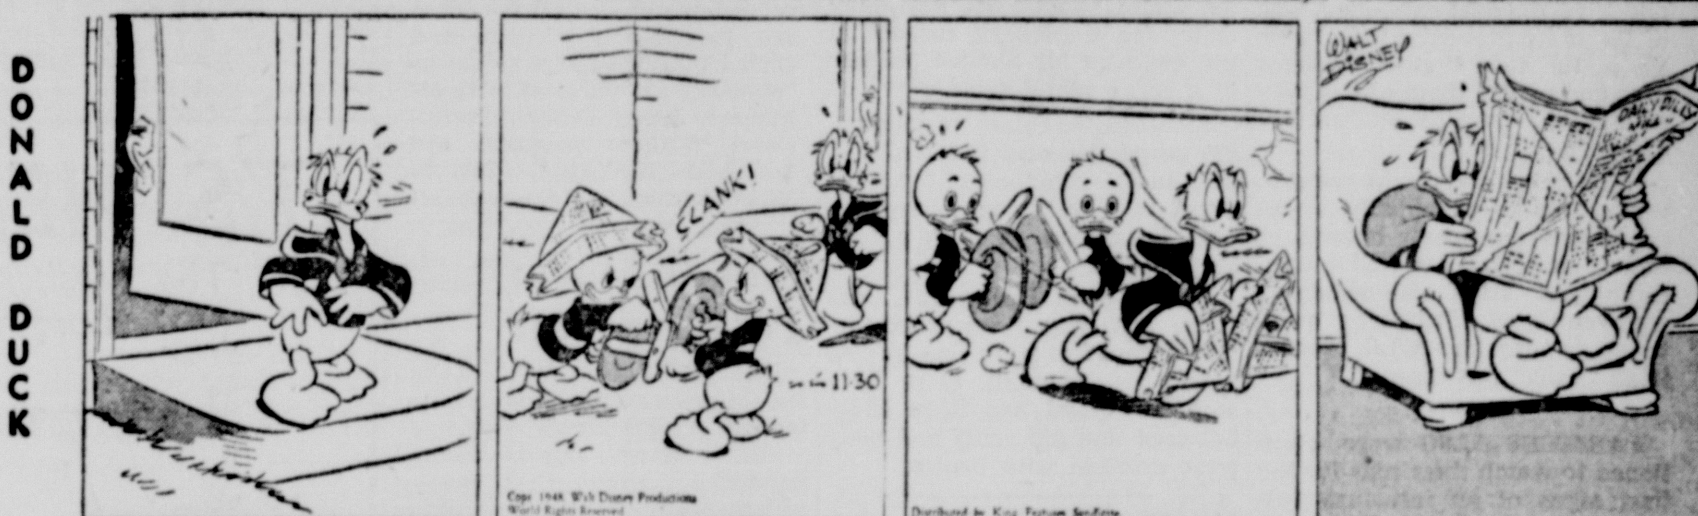

Willis, although not well-known to Ohio footballers, nevertheless is the talk of eastern small-college football.

Farmers Warned Keep Lookout For Influenza In Hogs

Winterish Weather To Bring Ills

Disease Claimed Fast-Spreading

Changeable weather of early winter can lead to serious losses among droves of swine, according to a warning to farmers issued by Larry Best, Pickaway County Agricultural agent.

"Unless hogs are given the proper shelter," Best declared, "the farmer is taking a gamble with a possible outbreak of swine influenza. Flu losses this season could be especially costly."

Swine influenza is an acute, fast-spreading disease caused by the combined action of a virus and a germ, Best explained. One of the chief problems with swine flu is the fact that it weakens pigs and makes them easier prey to cholera, enteritis and similar diseases. He said:

"The virus and germ seem to cause trouble principally where swine are improperly housed, or unduly exposed to cold and dampness. Dry, well-bedded, well-ventilated, draft-free quarters are therefore vital precautions against this disease."

FARMERS ALSO were cautioned to watch their pigs for the first signs of an influenza outbreak—symptoms like listlessness, loss of appetite, coughing, labored breathing and watery eyes. "Immediate diagnosis and careful nursing help to assure recovery, and also help prevent spread of the disease to the rest of the herd and help prevent deaths from secondary complications," the agent said.

Here today—
and a long tomorrow!

Buying your next new car "For keeps"?

Here's a durability story you shouldn't miss!

If you're a value-minded, long-range buyer—here are some quick facts you'll want to keep in mind...

1. Of all the Packards built—since 1899—over 50% are still in service.

2. It's commonplace for Packards (many of them in tough, round-the-clock commercial service) to roll up more than 400,000 miles apiece before being retired.

3. Today's new Packards are more durable than ever. Proof: Periodic service records, submitted by all Packard dealers, show that service needs of the new Packard Eights are the lowest in Packard's 49 years of precision manufacturing!

That's just part of the value story behind this sleek new Packard.

So if you're buying your next new car "for keeps", you'll want to hear this Packard story in every exciting detail. Come in!
